She usually goes out on Saturday afternoons and Sunday mornings.

On Saturday afternoons she meets her friends and they go to the shops or to see a film or they just relax and do nothing.

On Sunday mornings she goes for a walk in the park and plays with their dog. She often goes swimming or rides her bike with her best friend, Joanna.

Picture 1 is an old picture. I can see seven people in the country. There's a girl, she's about 14, her parents and grandparents. There's another young woman, perhaps she's the girl's sister.

They're travelling – from Missouri to Oregon in the USA. The girl and her father and the other man are walking. They're hot and tired.

Picture 2 is also quite old. There are two teenagers, a boy and a girl. He's about 15, she's about 14. She's wearing a long dress. They're talking. I think they're friends. I think they feel happy. They're outside. They're walking on a ship. I can see the name the Titanic.

Hello from Mexico City! We arrived late last night after a long flight. This city is very BIG and LOUD! This morning we went from the hotel to the Zócalo, the main square, by taxi. There's a really big Mexican flag there and an amazing cathedral. The people here are very friendly and I think the food is great (but very hot!). We had lunch in a market. I spoke some Spanish and the waiter understood me perfectly! (He didn't understand Dad's terrible Spanish!)
